

PID:PT2022_0135

Abstract:

Millisecond pulsars (MSP) are likely formed in binary systems. It looks promising to select targets based on potential companions identified at optical band. Subdwarf B stars are one kind of potential companions. But so far no binary system of sdB-MSP has been discovered. We propose to search pulsars in four sdB systems with possible neutron star companions using extremely sensitive FAST.